Executive Summary

EudaCorp needed help navigating CMMC compliance without letting the process overwhelm its team or distract from running the business. After evaluating several consulting firms, the company chose 7tech for its affordability, expertise, and support. 7tech provided clear guidance and a structured plan, helping EudaCorp move forward with greater confidence, less stress, and a clearer path through the compliance process.

About the Client

EudaCorp is a Fort Worth, Texas-based cost engineering and project controls firm founded in 1999. The company specializes in cost estimating, scheduling, and value management services, primarily supporting government projects. As EudaCorp worked through its CMMC compliance needs, the company wanted a partner that could simplify the process and provide a clear path forward.

The Challenge

CMMC compliance presented EudaCorp with a complex set of requirements to understand and manage. The company needed experienced guidance, a clear plan, and a way to move forward without letting the compliance process overwhelm its team or distract from day-to-day business operations

- EudaCorp needed help making sense of a maze of requirements without unnecessary confusion, stress, or uncertainty.
- The company wanted a knowledgeable CMMC partner that could provide clear, practical guidance and supportive service.
- EudaCorp needed a structured approach that allowed the team to make progress on compliance while staying focused on running the business.

7tech helped us cut through the maze of CMMC requirements without stress or panic. Their team understood the maturity model inside and out and laid out a clear, structured plan to guide us every step of the way.
